About the Georgia Library Association

The Georgia Library Association was founded in 1897 in order to facilitate partnership among Georgia's librarians who often found themselves isolated in their work. It has since become a leader in library innovation and professional librarianship. The organization is dedicated to developing an understanding of the place that libraries should take in advancing the educational, cultural, and economic life of the state. They also believe in promoting the expansion and improvement of library service and fostering activities towards these ends.
